

How Cognitive Outsourcing Supports

Strategic Supplier Management

As strategic supplier relationships become increasingly important, companies can leverage technology to make outsourcing relationships leaner, more profitable, and more advantageous.

It's vital to define a co-management relationship via a data foundation that supports quantitative analysis of performance with clear performance metrics.

Enlist a sophisticated, proven tool that automates the outsourcing governance function.

Technical tool will accomplish six critical requirements for successful cognitive outsourcing governance:

Ensures accurate and automated data is captured to gain visibility into outsourced team operations

Captures data that is highly accurate and can be used to create benchmarks, SLAs, and metrics to run governance

Creates a data-driven engagement and governance model

Ensures there is real-time visibility into activities to predict the outcome/deliverables

Links data captured back to current metrics and SLA in contracts

Frees up governance team resources to focus on increasing value from its outsourcing engagements

Technology-enabled outsourcing makes every outsourcing relationship a strategic supplier relationship thanks to transparency and objective data.
